

FORBANK'S EATE IN CONGR; WEDNESDAY ENDED

Wednesday Consumed by Address of Ex-Congressman Howard, Solicitor Dorsey Making No Reply.

DECISION OF GOVERNOR EXPECTED BY SATURDAY

As Soon as Hearing Was Completed, Gov. Slaton Left for Country Home to Study the Records.

The Leo M. Frank hearing before Governor John M. Slaton ended with the conclusion of Attorney William Howard's speech yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock following an entire day devoted to argument.

Governor Slaton will probably render his decision Friday or Saturday, just as soon as he could gather documentary evidence, records and other data bearing upon the case, he left for his country home on Peachtree road where he announced he would spend the night in studying the case.

This line of procedure was announced by the governor the morning Mr. Howard ended his address. He will not quit his study of the case until he is prepared to render a decision. Information could be gathered by his present opinion.

During the afternoon session Wednesday a number of girls and young women put in an appearance for the first time. Owing to the crowded condition of the governor's private office, in which the hearing was held, they were forced to stand on the outside of the crowded door and look in upon soap boxes, chairs and stools.

Howard Review Case. There was hardly a phase of the famous Frank trial overlooked by Attorney Howard. He undertook to show by the evidence that Leo Frank, Conley, not Frank, was guilty. He based the bulk of his argument on the testimony of Conley himself. Mr. Howard manifested a keen insight into the records of the case and trial, and a phenomenally retentive memory of detail.

At the opening of the Wednesday afternoon session, Governor Slaton asked Mr. Howard if he would excuse Mr. Frank from holding in abeyance the engagement to attend the baseball game yesterday of the Mary Phagan case; likewise why he had made the appointment.

"It was in line with my argument," replying the attorney. "In making his address," he said, in part:

"It must be conceded, your excellency, that if it is true that Conley is not true in any part, no evidence can be put upon the stand to prove the truth of the evidence. Please consider that the evidence which might contradict Conley is not that of the state, but of the defense of the prosecution."

"It is not possible," said that Mary Phagan was in the building at the time of the Stover's appearance. "The theory of the case is that the money of George Epps to the effect that the Phagan had been carried off at Broad and Marietta streets, two blocks distant, at 12:37 o'clock."

Contrast to State. The Epps testimony in direct contrast to what the state required. When Dorsey stated to leave his seat, he sought to make every effort to be bound and durable. But during the latter part of the trial, even a witness upon the stand to contradict the statement of Epps, his own witness.

"It was your speech, Brother Dorsey (turning to the solicitor who sat next him), that brought me here against you. You can't get away from that. There is no doubt about it."

"At the end of the trial, however, during the course of this great speech, Mr. Dorsey urged that the testimony of Epps is reliable, worthy and dependable to impeach the evidence of the defense. The state was used to refute the story of the street car witnesses who knew the exact time of their running schedule, and kept as perfectly posted on time as railway officials."

"This was one of the places where the state found itself that it had failed to make its case—and began clutching at straws."

"I am willing, though, to stand on the theory of the case, and on its evidence. I am willing to take the case made out by the state, even before the defense introduced a word—and acquiesce in my own witness to take even the classic word of George Epps."

Confession of Arrival. Here, the record is undisputed that Corning Hall came and left between 11:30 and 11:45 o'clock. The testimony of Corning Hall, with her Miss Emma Freeman, that they saw Mary Phagan, who visited to the factory that day. The never moving, and the fact that the time they appeared at the factory was not in the record.

"Emma Quinn was there at 12:30 o'clock. She saw Mary Phagan, and she saw her go to the factory. She arrived at 12:30. All this is undisputed. The fact that she saw Mary Phagan at the time Miss Freeman and Miss Quinn came into the factory, and that she had already gone back into the metal shop, and that she had been carrying into a sheet of bed-ticking, had helped her to keep it in the record."

"It is not possible," said that Mary Phagan was in the building at the time of the Stover's appearance. "The theory of the case is that the money of George Epps to the effect that the Phagan had been carried off at Broad and Marietta streets, two blocks distant, at 12:37 o'clock."

"It isn't necessary," in this regard, to add that it had been possible to Continued on Page Three.

"Dago Frank" Died In Electric Chair Although Innocent

Rabbi Goldstein, Sing Sing Chaplain, Tells New York Constitution Makers—Alleges Scores of Innocents Have Been Executed.

Albany, N. Y., June 16.—Rabbi Jacob Goldstein, a chaplain to Sing Sing prison, and the Tomba, New York city, asserted before the bill of rights committee of the constitution convention today that one of the four New York gunmen executed for the murder of Herman Rosenthal went to his death an innocent man.

Mr. Goldstein would not name the gunman, but he is believed to have referred to "Dago Frank" Crofted.

The rabbi appeared before the committee to urge a constitutional amendment abolishing the death penalty.

"From my own experience," he said, "and from what I know of the fact that scores of innocent men have died on the gallows and in the chair, I was present when a lad, whom I personally knew to be innocent, went to his death."

Asked if he referred to one of the four gunmen, he replied:

"I do, and the innocence of this boy has been admitted in a communication from the district attorney's office to the governor."

FIRE DROVE INTO DOG HEADS PRINTERS BURNED

Main Building at Bellwood Avenue Destroyed When It Is Struck by a Bolt of Lightning.

Struck by a bolt of lightning, the Bellwood avenue county convict camp was set on fire last evening about 6:30 o'clock and in a short while the main building was burned to the ground.

In the building at the time were 217 convicts, all negroes with the exception of five white trustees. Nine of the negroes are believed to have escaped, but it will require a check this morning before it is known exactly how many are missing.

None of the convicts was injured, all getting out of the building before the flames had spread.

Building 30 Years Old. The building was built in 1885 and was located in Bellwood near Ashby street. It cost about $1000 and was a large frame structure with a shingle roof. It was fully insured.

The 50 feet of the main building was the stable, in which were 117 mules. Fortunately the wind was blowing so as to keep the flames from the stable, otherwise it might have burned and all the stock lost.

The convicts were ordered to supper after a hard day's work and they were hungry and tired. A storm was blowing and going fast. There was a flash of lightning and a crash of thunder and the roof of the building was in flames.

The convicts and guards sprang to their feet. Three convicts, who were near the door, saw hopes of liberty in that flash of lightning, and they tried to follow, but were stopped by the guards.

Panic Is Averted. It required coolness and courage to prevent a panic. The men were marched out of the burning building into an old field, where they were made to stand in a circle so they could be fastened together by a long chain.

They were so tired and hungry to offer resistance.

The blaze as the large wooden structure burned and the flames spread to the main building. The convicts were ordered to stand in a circle so they could be fastened together by a long chain.

Damage Done at Karlsruhe by the French Air Raid Much Greater Than Newspapers Were Allowed to State.

Two hundred persons were killed; the attack was made at night.

Zeppelins Retaliated by Raiding England.

Sixteen Persons Killed and Forty Injured—Zeppelin Raid on Night of June 6 Resulted in 24 Deaths.

Women and Children Killed.

London, June 17.—(1:35 a. m.)—A Rotterdam dispatch to The Exchange Telegraph reports that the damage done by the French air raid was much greater than the newspapers were allowed to state.

"Two hundred persons were killed," says the correspondent. "Fifty bombs were dropped, one of them destroyed the Karlsruhe commandant's headquarters, and others destroyed shell factories. A great panic was caused and the victims will be buried as early as night."

"The people are ignorant of the utter failure of the anti-aircraft measures and they complain that no signals of the approach of the French aviators were given."

A French statement yesterday said that the Karlsruhe raid was the first of a series of attacks on German cities by zeppelins causing many fires. It was stated that the zeppelins were shot down by the anti-aircraft forces.

Did It Snow in June?
Courtroom Attaches
Say They Saw Flakes
Hail and snow in Atlanta on the 16th day of June!
Two storms, with lightning, thunder and a heavy downpour of rain on the same day!
That was some weather for a June day, wasn't it?
Everybody saw the rain and the hail, but the snow is vouchered for by the fact that several flakes of snow were seen drifting in the windows of the hall while the trial was in progress. And the clouds will roll away to-day, and the sun will shine warm and bright, is the prediction of the weather bureau.

FIERY RED SKIN ON CHILD'S FACE
Came on Limbs, Pimples Under Skin. Clothing Irritated, Itched and Burned. Restless at Night. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In a Month Face Normal.
R. F. D. No. 2, McCormick, N. C.—"My little boy's affection began with fiery red skin on the face. Later it came on his limbs. There were small pimples under the skin. It was itchy and burned at times worse than others. His clothing irritated it very much. The breaking out on his face looked very bad. It looked as if it would burn. It seemed to itch and burn when rubbed. He was restless at night. He had the affection for four months or more before I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment. First I used a sample of each and before I had the sample used a marked improvement could be seen. I then bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and in a month his face was normal again without any scars." (Signed) T. S. Deaton, Oct. 1, 1914.
